OUR SERVICES

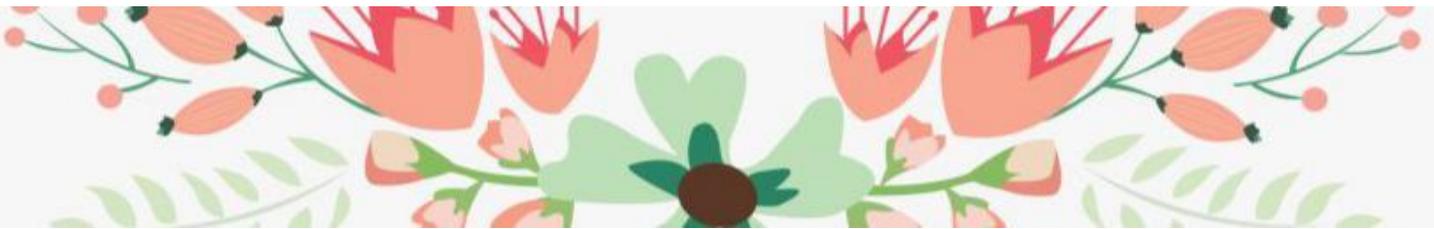

1. Residential

Residential design is a process that results in a new home. Architectural clients might experience confusion about this term because it represents several phases of the home design process. The process of residential design includes a contract that specifies details about design, construction and pricing obligations

2. Commercial

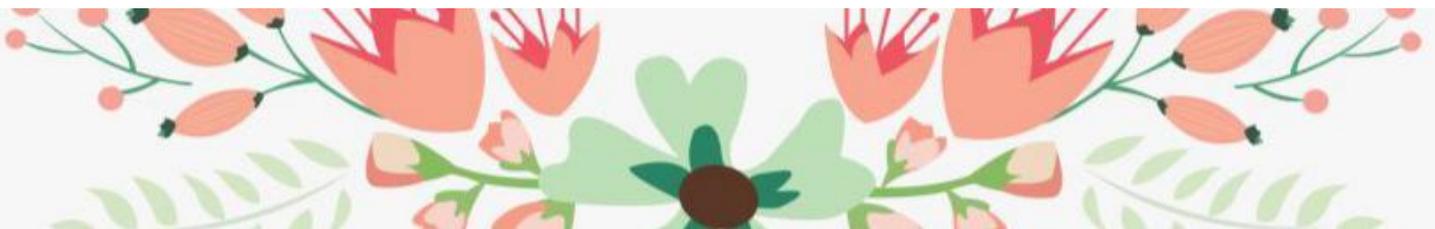

Commercial spaces are witnessing exponential growth as the brightest brains in the country are combining creativity with utility to come up with world-class projects. With ever-changing demands, evolving tastes and global exposure architects.

3. UPVC

UPVC Doors play an important role in the design aesthetic and performance of buildings. It provides a visual and physical connection between the indoor and the outdoor environment and enhances the overall appearance of the building. Globally, uPVC doors have been widely accepted due to their aesthetic values and excellent insulation properties. Un-plasticized Polyvinyl chloride is sturdy material that is used widely in the construction industry. In the previous certain years, the usage of Un-plasticized Polyvinyl chloride has grown immensely and is currently one of the most popular building materials. The doors add style to your house, and therefore, it is a very important aspect to the appearance of your house.

Our Process

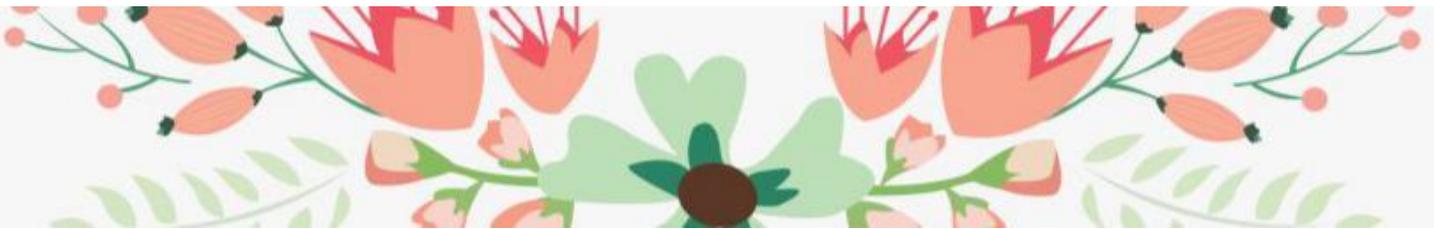

1. Meet & Agree

The first step will be a meeting arranged with our Head – Business Development where he will show you some of our recent projects' actual photos. We will measure the premises and then, we shall ask you and your family about 100+ questions which will include your family size, budget, requirements, lifestyle, likes and dislikes, taste, and all the possible questions which will help us to conceptualize your dream home. After this, let us finalize and start collaborating with you for your dream home.

2. Idea & Concept

A good concept can make your design more interesting. It can add depth and meaning to your work. A concept helps you generate new and related ideas. It also guides your thinking and design decisions. Your ability to develop concepts, your creativity, can help you stand out from other designers..

3. Design & Create

Design & Create is a new way of thinking and creating. Design & Create offers you the possibility of creating precisely the light fitting that you have in mind. We can create any shape and any colour. Design & Create is a new way of thinking and creating.
